FLOORS

A story in every step.

Each plank has a unique story, creating a one-of-a-kind look for any space.

YesterYear Floors offers the beauty of aged barnwood with the simplicity of tongue-and-groove flooring.

Typically, Oaks are the most common. Its hardness is a huge contributing factor to its wide appeal with a deep grain pattern that is both beautiful and distinctive. It also takes stains and glazes well allowing for a unique look to match your vision.

Straight edged, square cut barnwood can be used as accent walls, shiplap, exterior facade or smaller craft projects and architectural design elements.

The most beautif reclaimed wood -

usually comes from older, weathered wood. This increases its value over virgin lumber of today and helps prevent it from shrinking or warping. It is durable, and the ability for blemishes to enhance, not detract, from the natural beauty of the material.

Available in custom reclaimed wood, these items are hand-crafted, making each a masterpiece for your home.

Each piece is a characteristic of its location, making it's a one-of-a-kind piece.

The use of reclaimed wood isn't just limited to flooring. From ceilings and accent walls, to furniture and mantels; you are only limited by your imagination in how you can bring a unique look and warm, inviting feel into your home.

I have been in the woodworking business since 1982 and our team has over 100 years combines experience. We have loved every minute of it. Our renewable resources are and will continue to manifest itself as long as we all play a part in its preservation and conservation.

Our company firmly believes in lasting preservation! We are humbly using yesterday's forgotten treasures and renewing it into flooring, mantels, wall coverings and furniture. Mother nature provided shelter and storage long ago. We are continuing her crusade today.

One board at a time! One step at a time!
